

Breakfast and Lunch Recipes — Mexico in My Kitchen

1. Eggs and Traditional Breakfasts

Mexican Chilaquiles (Red Chilaquiles)

Description: Classic Mexican breakfast made of crispy corn tortilla chips bathed in red tomato and chili sauce, served with cream, cheese, and onion.

Ingredients: Day-old corn tortillas (cut into triangles), 4 ripe tomatoes, 2 serrano peppers (or arbol peppers), 1 clove of garlic, 1/4 white onion, 1 sprig of fresh epazote, vegetable oil, and salt. To serve: fresh cream, crumbled fresh cheese, and chopped onion.

How to prepare:

1. Brown the tortilla chips: Heat plenty of oil in a large skillet and fry the tortilla triangles over medium heat until crispy and lightly golden. Drain on paper towels.
2. Make the sauce: Boil the tomatoes and peppers in boiling water for 8 minutes until softened. Blend them with garlic, onion, a pinch of salt, and a little cooking water.
3. Season: Heat a tablespoon of oil in a pot, pour in the blended sauce, and add the epazote sprig. Simmer over medium heat for 5 minutes to thicken.
4. Combine: Add the fried tortilla chips to the simmering sauce, stirring gently for 1 minute so they absorb the sauce without turning soggy.
5. Serve: Plate immediately and garnish with sour cream, sprinkled fresh cheese, and finely chopped onion.

1. Huevos Tirados (Veracruz-Style Eggs with Beans)

Description: Veracruz specialty in which scrambled eggs are merged with refried black beans, creating a creamy and hearty dish.

Ingredients: 4 eggs, 1 cup of soupy refried black beans, 1 tablespoon of pork lard (or oil), salt to taste. Garnish: fresh cheese, tortilla chips, or fried plantains.

How to prepare:

2. Lightly beat the eggs in a bowl with salt.
3. Heat the pork lard in a skillet over medium heat.
4. Pour in the beaten eggs and let them begin to set gently for 30 to 45 seconds.
5. Add the cup of refried black beans directly into the skillet over the eggs.
6. Stir constantly with a wooden spoon over medium-low heat until the eggs and beans are fully integrated into a thick, homogenous texture. Serve hot topped with fresh cheese.

1. Huevos Motuleños (Motul-Style Eggs)

Description: Traditional Yucatecan breakfast of fried eggs mounted on corn tortillas with black beans, covered in chiltomate sauce, ham, peas, and fried plantain.

Ingredients: 4 corn tortillas, 4 eggs, 1 cup of refried black beans, 3 ripe tomatoes, 1/4 onion, 1 clove of garlic, 1 whole habanero pepper, 100 g diced ham, 1/2 cup cooked peas, 1 sliced and fried plantain, fresh or queso de bola cheese, and oil.

How to prepare:

2. Chiltomate sauce: Roast tomatoes, onion, and garlic on a griddle (comal). Blend with salt and sauté in a skillet with a tablespoon of oil along with the whole habanero pepper over low heat for 10 minutes.
3. Base: Briefly pass tortillas through hot oil just to soften them. Spread each tortilla generously with black beans and place on the plate.
4. Eggs: Fry eggs sunny-side up, keeping yolks runny. Place one egg over each bean-covered tortilla.
5. Assembly: Pour hot chiltomate sauce over the top, sprinkle diced ham, peas, and grated cheese, and arrange fried plantain slices on the sides.

1. Huevito en Salsa (Scrambled Eggs in Salsa)

Description: Scrambled eggs cooked over low heat in a well-seasoned homemade tomato or green tomatillo sauce.

Ingredients: 4 eggs, 3 tomatoes (or green tomatillos), 2 serrano peppers, 1/4 onion, 1 clove of garlic, 2 sprigs of cilantro, salt, and oil.

How to prepare:

2. Boil or roast tomatoes, peppers, garlic, and onion. Blend with salt until smooth.

3. Beat eggs with salt and scramble in a skillet with hot oil until gently set.
4. Pour blended sauce directly over the eggs in the skillet.
5. Add cilantro sprigs, cover, and simmer over medium-low heat for 4 minutes for the eggs to absorb the sauce. Serve with warm tortillas.

1. Huevos Revueltos con Chaya (Scrambled Eggs with Chaya)

Description: Highly nutritious Mayan and Tabasco dish mixing cooked tender chaya leaves with scrambled eggs.

Ingredients: 4 eggs, 1 cup tender chaya leaves (washed and chopped), 1/4 chopped onion, 1 tablespoon lard or oil, salt to taste.

How to prepare:

2. Boil chopped chaya leaves in salted water for 8 minutes (chaya should never be eaten raw); strain and drain well.
3. In a skillet, heat lard and sauté chopped onion until translucent.
4. Add cooked chaya and sauté for 2 minutes.
5. Beat eggs with salt, pour over chaya, and scramble over medium heat until cooked to desired doneness.

1. Huevos Revueltos con Chile Poblano (Scrambled Eggs with Poblano Peppers)

Description: Fluffy scrambled eggs mixed with roasted poblano pepper strips and sautéed onions.

Ingredients: 4 eggs, 2 roasted poblano peppers (peeled and sliced into strips), 1/2 sliced onion, 1 tablespoon oil, salt, and beans for serving.

How to prepare:

2. Sauté sliced onion in a skillet with hot oil until soft and lightly golden.
3. Add poblano pepper strips and cook for 3 minutes.
4. Beat eggs with salt and add to skillet.

Ingredients: 2 cups diced cactus paddles (nopales), 4 eggs, 1/2 chopped onion, 1 chopped tomato, 1 chopped serrano pepper, 1 tablespoon oil, and salt.

How to prepare:

2. Cook diced cactus in boiling salted water for 10 minutes (or sauté in a pan without water until liquid dries out); drain and rinse.
3. In a skillet with oil, sauté onion, pepper, and tomato for 3 minutes.
4. Add cooked cactus and sauté for 2 minutes.
5. Pour in beaten eggs with salt and scramble until fluffy and cooked.

1. Migas Mexicanas (Migas with Egg)

Description: Crispy day-old corn tortilla pieces browned in a skillet and scrambled with egg.

Ingredients: 4 to 5 cold corn tortillas cut into squares, 4 eggs, 1/4 chopped onion, 1 chopped serrano pepper, 2 tablespoons oil, and salt.

How to prepare:

2. Heat oil in a large skillet and brown tortillas over medium heat until crispy and golden (about 5 minutes).
3. Add chopped onion and pepper; sauté 1 minute with tortillas.
4. Beat eggs with salt and pour over crispy tortillas.
5. Stir constantly over medium heat until egg coats tortillas and is fully cooked.

Empapatas (Traditional Recipe from Misantla, Veracruz)

Description: Country breakfast of layered tortillas dipped in lard, dry chili sauce, beans, and egg or meat, wrapped in papata leaves to seal in flavor and heat.

Ingredientes: 6 corn tortillas, 1 cup semi-liquid refried black beans, 1 cup dry chili or chipotle sauce, 2 fried or scrambled eggs, pork lard, clean papata or banana leaves softened over a comal.

How to prepare:

1. Pass papata leaves over comal to soften and spread in a cross shape.
2. Dip tortillas in hot lard for a few seconds to soften.
3. Place a tortilla on leaf, spread with beans, and pour sauce over it. Add cooked egg.
4. Place another tortilla on top with more beans and sauce, forming several layers.
